Hazardous Weather

Shower and thunderstorm chances will increase across the area today as an upper level storm system begins to affect the region. The best chance for showers and thunderstorms will be tonight. Some storms may become severe tonight with large hail and damaging winds.

Storm chances will be on the increase through Thursday across North Texas. Today, a dryline will push east and scattered severe thunderstorms are expected mainly northwest of our area. There could be a few scattered storms across North Texas this afternoon, but coverage is generally expected to be 30% or less.
